Gobierno di Aruba y Aruba Circular Economy Foundation

A firma un MOU cu meta pa aumenta consciencia riba economia circular na Aruba

Cu e obhetivo di implementacion di "Circular Economy Action Plan", Gobierno di Aruba y Aruba Circular Economy Foundation (ACEF) a firma un Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) durante un ceremonia virtual, unda e enfoko di ACEF lo aumenta e consciencia riba economia circular pa asina acelera e transicion pa un modelo economico sostenibel, independiente y inclusivo pa Aruba.

Den un comunicado di prensa di Ministerio di Asuntunan Economico, Comunicacion y Desaroyo Sostenibel a señala cu ACEF ta un fundacion non-profit y ta consisti di miembronan local y internacional cu experticio diverso y experiencia, trahando riba e temanan di sostenibilidad y economia circular. E enfoko di e fundacion ta pa crea consciencia (awareness), promove conocimiento di economia circular, y stimula "Circular thinking and practice" – pues pensamiento y practica (estilo di bida) circular – na Aruba.

Minister Geoffrey Wever a splica di ta contento di por inicia e partnership aki hunto cu ACEF, unda cu e colaboracion lo por sigura miho esfuerso den inspira, motiva y empodera ciudadano di Aruba y tambe negoshinan local pa haci e transicion den un ritmo mas rapido. E parti di "public awareness" ta importante pa e ministerio su implementacion di "Circular Economy Action Plan" cual oficialmente lo ser lansa fin di e luna aki.

Durante e reunion tabata presente pa firma Mr. Geoffrey Wever (Minister di Asuntunan Economico, Comunicacion y Desaroyo Sostenibel) y Mr. Egidio Bundel (Presidente di ACEF), acompaña pa Mr. Bauke Feenstra (Treasurer ACEF), Mrs. Eunice Semeleer (Sustainability Policy and Strategy Advisor) and Mr. Jeremy Croes (Circular Economy Project Lead). Economia circular ta trece hopi beneficio cu lo mester yuda disminui e uso di recursonan, reduci e produccion di desperdicio y limita e consumo di energia, ademas tin beneficio ambiental cu lo permiti haya un bentaha competitivo den e contexto di globalisacion.

E ta promove e diseño superior di materialnan, sistemanan y modelonan comercial, pa contribui na e capital economico, natural y social e rason pa e cual e sistema aki ta diseña pa beneficia companianan, creando un balor comparti, pa e sociedad y medio ambiente.

Pa cada aña na Europa, ta wordo utiliza den promedio casi 16 ton di material pa persona pa asina nan por move nan economia, ademas di 6 ton mas cu ta bira desperdicio, di otro banda, casi e mita di desperdicio genera ta termina na dumpnan.

E principionan di economia circular ta consisti di e promocion di preservacion di capital natural y ta fomenta e importancia di selecciona di forma consciente e recursonan, tecnologia y proceso-nan, cu e fin cu cada biaha lo ta mas eficiente den e cadena di produccion.

Esaki ta convoca pa duna prioridad na utilizacion di fluho di recursonan natural y renovable, si ta posibel, materialnan organico, palo y desperdicio vegetal cu despues di usa nan por bay back na medio ambiente of por wordo probecha cu energia renovable.

E segundo principio ta enfoca riba mehoracion di uso di recursonan, componentenan of materialnan, di forma cu nan por wordo someti na proceso di reparacion of reciclahe cu ta busca promove e implementacion di ciclonan interno di companianan.

E ultimo principio ta trata di fomenta eco-eficacia di sistema, identifica e diseño, fayonan cu su uso por genera como por ehemplo, elementonan toxico, emision di contaminacion of desperdicionan cu por implica un daño pa salud y medio ambiente.

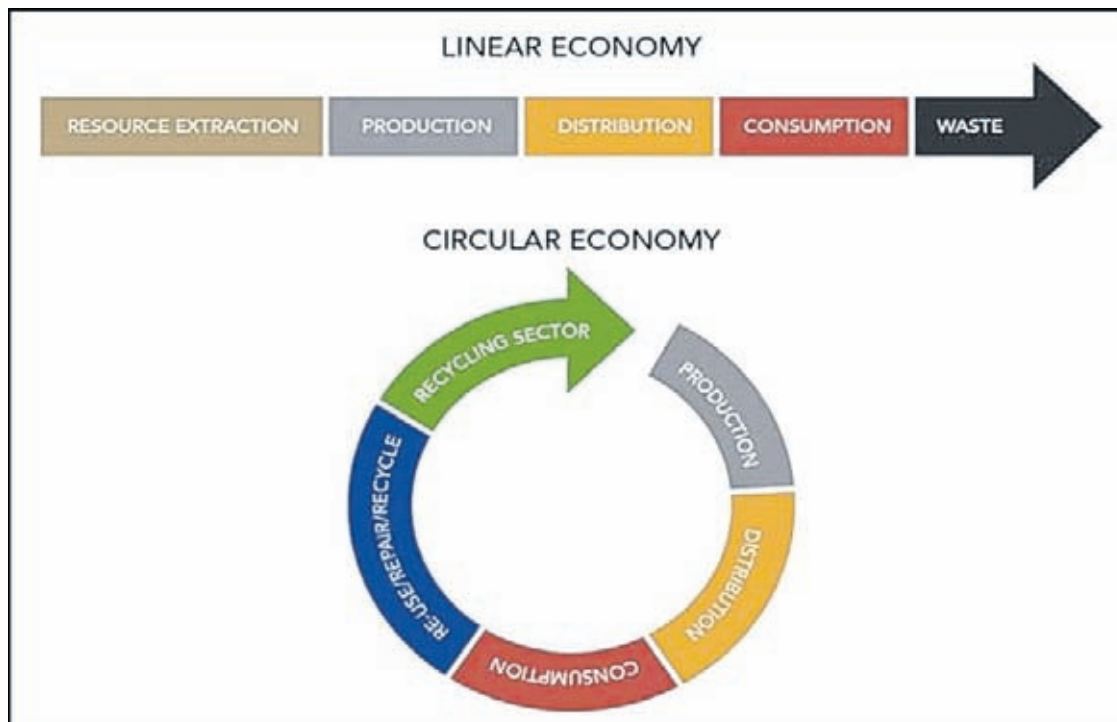

Ta casi tres siman pasa cu na Aruba a tuma luga e di 10 edicion di 'Sustainable Education Symposium' (SES) 2022. E titulo di e simposio di e aña aki tabata 'Road to the Circular Economy' cual a wordo organisa pa Biblioteca Nacional di Aruba hunto cu Aruba Circular Economy Foundation (ACEF) cu a conta cu e presencia di oradornan local y internacional.

Den e simposio aki tabata presente Dylan Farro, ta un Statistical Analyst na Banco Central di Aruba y actualmente ta finalizando su maestria den data analytics.

E titulo di e presentacion di Farro pa e simposio tabata "Exploring Consumers Circular Economic Behavior", unda cu segun esaki ta e prome investigacion di su tipo cu riba un manera cuantitativo a investiga kico ta motiva economia circular na Aruba.

El a remarca cu no solamente na Aruba, pero mundialmente, tin un escasez di data ariba e tereno di economia circular. E falta di data aki ta un problema pasobra exper-tonan no por determina necesariamente unda un pais ta, y consecuentemente nan no sa con pa yega caminda cu mester bay.

Pa Minister di Asunto Economico, Comunicacion y Desaroyo Sostenibel Geoffrey Wever e tipo di eventonan aki ta importante pa promove sostenibilidad y economia circular na Aruba y unda e ta menciona cu economia circular ta un modelo holistico pa logra sostenibilidad y a haci un yamada na un y tur pa uni tras di e meta aki den cual ta haci uso di innovacion tecnologico, organizacional, cultural y financiero pa avansa e transicion na un modelo economico na Aruba cu ta sostenibel, circular y 'self-reliant' incluso.

Marisol Lopez Tromp ta enfatisa cu mescos cu ta e caso di Aruba, Gobiernonan di St. Maarten y Corsou tambe a firma pa e leynan aki bin. “Tur tres a bay de acuerdo cu e concepto manera cu e ta awor aki. Ta na Parlamento su turno pa duna su punto di bista riba esaki. Den e siman cu ta bin, cada fraccion den Parlamento lo pone riba papel, preto riba blanco, den e relato, kico ta su postura. No solamente riba e reformanan pero tambe e leynan cu tin cu percura pa nan keda ehecuta.”

Kico ta COHO

Segun Marisol Lopez Tromp mester considera COHO, e Organo di Reforma y Desaro, como un vehiculo. Un entidad pa yega na reformanan cu pa decadanan mester a keda implementa, pero tur Gobierno a keda pusha dilanti. “E instrumento aki, esta e vehiculo aki manera con e ta poni riba mesa, lo mester percura cu e reformanan aki por tuma lugar riba un forma structura.”

Fraccion y partido MAS ta convenci cu mester di e entidad aki.

Croes kende a negocia cu Hulanda y finalmente a bay de acuerdo cu e reformanan y e vehiculo COHO. “Prome Minister a bisa den su ultimo conferencia di prensa, cu COHO ta e ley cu ta rigi kico ta pasa si Aruba no cumpli, ki sancion lo tin. Tambe el a bisa cu e ley ta rigi e sancion si Hulanda no ta cumpli y kico ta e sancion pa e esey. Naturalmente nos di MAS ta di opinion cu pueblo mester carga e ley y cu mester keda implementa den forma realistico.”

Pa tal motibo mes, fraccion di MAS a bisa cu ta preparando su preguntanan riba e ley, punto di bista, y puntonan di mehoracion pa loke ta e conceptonan di ley di consenso di Reino. Pueblo lo haya e puntonan di bista pa lesa. “Nan no ta punto di bista nobo, nos tin nan hancra caba den programa di campaña y programa di partido y MAS a haya dos asiento den forma transparente, bisando cu nos kier reforma.”

Dos lenga

Pero, locual ta hala atencion di lider di MAS ta cu Prome Minister Evelyn Wever Croes ta papia cu “dos lenga. Pasobra mientras cu el a firma caba, el a acorda dor di pone su firma bao di e proposicion di e ley di consenso di Reino (COHO) aki; ta mira na mesun momento cu ora e ta papia cu Secretario di Estado Van Huffelen e ta bisa cu e ley manera cu e ta awor aki, e ta de acuerdo cune.” Prome Minister Wever Croes a bisa publicamente den presencia di van Huffelen cu “Nos a bay de acuerdo cu e textonan (di e proposicionnan di leynan di consenso di Reino) y nos lo haci nos esfuerso maximo pa cumpli cu e condicionnan.”

P’esey mes pa lider di MAS e ta prueba cu Evelyn Wever Croes no ta un hende cu ta papia cu honestidad, pasobra den un recien declaracion publico el a bisa net lo contrario. “Esta, cu e no ta kere cu mester bin COHO, cu e no ta kere cu e entidad mester bin pa ehecuta e reformanan, pasobra e ta kere cu nos mes por.” Prome Minister literalmente a bisa algun siman pasa cu “e areglonan den e ley di COHO ta duna impresion of e balans di poder di COHO ta hopi na banda di Hulanda y esey ta locual mayoria persona tin problema cu e ley di COHO. Ami personalmente tambe tin problema cu esaki.”

Segun Lopez Tromp, e ta logico cu Aruba kier pa su mes por. “Pero a keda demostra den transcurso di tempo cu loke tin awor aki, e situacion cu nos ta den, a bin pasobra nos no a cumpli cu locual nos mes como Pais Aruba, como Gobiernonan cu nos lo ehecuta. Nos di Mas no ta kere cu mester keda pusha dilanti e problemanan cu Aruba tin. A yega momento pa ehecuta nan den forma structura. Mester stop di pusha problema pa yunan y nietonan.”

E lider di MAS a mostra cu e ta compronde cu tabatin e crisis di COVID-19, pero na mesun momento e pandemia a habri wowo di hopi hende pa e problemanan na Aruba y “na e momentonan aki ta importante pa no solamente wak e postura di Gobierno, pero tambe di Parlamento di Aruba y di otro paisnan den Reino.”

MEP y AVP a brasa otro

Den e ultimo dianan a mira con partidonan MEP y AVP cu ta opositor di otro, a uni riba e tema di COHO. “Eynan si nos a mira con nan a brasa otro, pasobra aparentemente tur ta de acuerdo cu no mester bin e entidad manera cu e ta awor aki, pasobra ‘nos mes por.’ Hasta nan ta contra e leynan di consenso di Reino. Nos por discuti bay y bin. Pero esencia ta cu pa por ehecuta cambianan structural pa Aruba a termino largo mester di un vehiculo manera COHO.

Marisol Lopez Tromp ya no ta kere cu por depende di Gobierno of eleccion nobo pasobra, tur biaha despues di un eleccion na Aruba ta para e reformanan cu a cuminza traha riba nan. “Nan no ta sigui. Esey a pasa den tur e añanan nos tras. Si berdaderamente pa nos pais ta mas resiliente, pa por tin situacion financiero saludabel, anto mester cumpli cu locual bo a priminti, cumpli cu e consehonan cu bo a ricibi di CAft, cu ta muestra kico e pais por carga. Y no manera con el a sosode awor aki, cu Gobierno cada biaha tras di otro ta haya critica por escrito di e colegio aki, pasobra no ta cumpli cu locual el a priminti.” Marisol Lopez Tromp a duna como ehempel e recorte di 12.6 porciento di salario di empleado publico y maestronan. “Te cu awe, Gobierno ta kita e porcentahe di esun cu ta traha p’e, su sodo, su trabao. Ta kita e placa aki di trahado, pero Gobierno mes no ta baha su gastonan structural, no ta stop di malgasta, no ta stop di nombra su mesun hendenan cu no ta cualifica pa cierto funcionnan,” e lider di MAS a enfatisa. Tur rapport ta muestra e realidad cu Gobierno no ta tuma paso pa structuralmente baha gasto. “Awor claro, ta con anto por kere cu ‘nos mes por,’ si nos ta keda hala problema pa despues. Den e caso aki, manera Minister President ta papia cu dos lenga, ta bira hopi importante pa Parlamento asumi su responsabilidad y muestra cu di berdaderamente nos kier yuda Aruba bay dilanti, haciendo uso di un entidad cu ta bay yuda cu reformanan ta keda ehecuta den un forma cu pueblo por carga y cu realmente ta sinti sigur cu no ta keda pusha problema pa futuro, pero cu ta haci “nos pais uno mas fuerte, particularmente despues di e retonan cu nos a pasa den.”

Un punto interesante den e proceso ta cu RAIZ tambe ta contra e ley di consenso di Reino COHO. Pasobra miembro di e mesun partido, mr. Carlos Guaimo ta un di e arkitectonan di e ley. E ta e consehero huridico riba e tema aki pa Prome Minister Evelyn Wever Croes. Es mas, durante e reunion cu Parlamento a tene cu porta cera, mr. Guaimo tabata un cu a splica e legisladornan kico ta e cambianan y con e ley ta hinca den otro. Pa Marisol Lopez Tromp, esaki ta ilustra un conflicto di interes y no ta duna e imagen di transparencia cu RAIZ a priminti.

Yliana Guillen, di un ilusion bunita pa un pesadilla traumatico

Dia di mama ta e fecha ariba cual ta celebra e felicidad di maternidad, caminda famianan ta honra y demostra nan amor y cariño pa e ser cu a trece nan na mundo. E proceso di parto especificamente ta uno cu hopi hende muhe ta recorda pa e resto di nan bida, un evento cu ta marca e cambio di mas grandi den e bida di e ser femenino. Pero no ta tur ora e experiencia di esaki por wordo describi manera uno bunita.

Yliana Guillen, un mama di 36 aña di edad ta conta Bon Dia Aruba su storia di con su experiencia durante e nace-mento di su yiu tabata. Guillen, ken a bira mama casi dos aña pasa, tabata e tempo ey e prome hende muhe na estado cu a wordo diagnostica cu COVID-19 aki na Aruba.

Un momento cu a marca su bida pa semper y cu tabata e principio di un proceso di parto traumatico.

Guillen ta conta cu practicamente durante e ultimo siman prome cu su fecha di parto, el a cuminsa sinti malo y tabatin keintura. Na e momento ey el a dicidi di prepara su cosnan y bay direccion hospital pa segura cu no tin nada malo.

Na momento cu el a yega hospital, Guillen a sigui conta, nan a mand'e di biaha pa e piso di maternidad y a indik'e cu e mester haci un test di COVID-19 pa confirma si e tin e virus of no. Na mesun momento nan a bis'e pa trece su tas cu tur su pertenencianan y e tas di e baby, pasobra ya probablemente el lo mester keda interna te ora cu e haya su baby.

Mientras e tabata en espera di e resultado di e test di COVID-19, el a wordo isola den un camber sin por a comunica cu su pareha ni ningun otro familiar of amistad.

Na momento cu e resultado di su test di Covid a sali positivo, el a wordo informa cu e ta prome mama, hende muhe na e estado, na Aruba cu ta wordo diagnostica cu COVID-19. Un sorpesa completo pa e futuro mama y e principio di un experiencia cu e ta describi manera traumatico.

“E gynaecoloog a drenta den camber, a mantene su distancia y a informa mi cu mi ta e prome mama cu ta bay haya yiu cu COVID na Aruba. Di eynan el a bisa mi cu nan ta bay haci un experimento cu mi. Mi a bisa e dokter ami no ta raton pa nan haci experimento cu mi”, Guillen a bisa.

Guillen, ken tambe tin un background den enfermeria, a remarca cu el a bisa e gynaecoloog cu den su opinion e ta haya nan mester haci un cesarea door di e diferente factornan cu no tabata na su favor. E test di cCovid positivo, su presion halto y ademas su edad tambe ta hunga un rol. Pero a pesar di a expresa su opinion, e gynaecoloog a opta pa toch sigui y purba pa e tin un parto natural.

“Mi tabata papia y niun hende tabata scucha mi. Mi tabata bisa e nurse cu mi no ta bezig ta wak bon. Tabatin un holoshi na muraya y mi ta bisa e nurse cu mi ta wak e holosho wazig, algo no ta bon. Pero nada. Despues di un rato mi a bis'e cu mi no por wak e numbernan di e holoshi mes, pero nan no a scucha mi. Ultimo cos cu mi ta corda ta cu tur cos a bira preto y mi a bay off”, Guillen a relata.

Despues di e momento ey Guillen a habri su wowonan back e siguiente dia 11or di anochi sin sa kico a pasa, buscando informacion di kico a pasa y informacion di su yiu, si e ta bon y ki ora e por wak su baby recién naci.

E gynaecoloog encarga cu e parto di Guillen a drenta den e camber y a splica Guillen kico tur a pasa. Na momento cu e gynaecoloog tabata splica kico a pasa, Guillen a cuminsa yora, pasobra ta algo increibel y algo cu niun mama ta desea di pasa den dje.

Guillen ta conta cu na momento cu tur cos a bira preto y el a perde conocimiento, el a convulsiona te na e punto cu el a morde su lenga asina fuerte cu el a kibra un pida. Nan a practica un cesarea di emergencia, bao di anestesia general pa por saca e baby na tempo pa e no sufri ningun daño pa motibo di falta di oxigeno.

“Mi cicatriz ta algo hopi mahos, un cos cu parece un carnicero a hacie. Tabatin cuater gynaecoloog presente durante mi cesarea y mi baby mester a bay den Unidad di Cuido Intensivo pa cinco dia. Mi no por a wak ni comunica cu mi pareha ni niun hende. Danki Dios mi baby no a sufri ningun daño y e ta un baby feliz y saludabel awendia”, el a conta.

Por ultimo, Guillen a expresa cu un experiencia cu tabata suppose di ta uno bunita ilusion a pasa pa ta un pesadilla traumatico y inolvidabel cu lo keda graba den su memoria pa henter bida. Despues di su parto el a keda hospitalisa pa casi un siman y despues cu el a yega cas e no por a wak ni touch su baby pa tres siman te ora cu e no a haya e OK di DVG.

“Nan tabata simannan di hopi duda, confusion, miedo y tristeza di no por tabata banda di mi baby. Awendia mi ta gradici Dios di tin mi prinses, e luz di mi dianan cu mi saludabel. Mi ta un mama afortunado di tin un yiu di un aña y mey inteligente, coketa, feliz y ariba tur cos cu bida y salud”, el a finalisa

Entrevista cu Sue Ann Lee

Decano nobo di FHTMS di Universidad di Aruba ta cla pa reto

Pa hopi tempo e tabata un ehecutivo den turismo di Aruba, pero Sue Ann Lee tin seis (6) aña caba ta duna les na Facultad di Hospitalidad y Estudio di Maneho di Turismo, FHTMS na Universidad di Aruba. Y awor, e ta e Decano di e facultad.

Lee, mama di tres yiu muhe y un baby na caminda a dicidi pa tuma e siguiente reto den su carera profesional y ta cla pa e reto.

E experiencia di traha como un ehecutivo den turismo pa para dilanti un grupo di hoben, mas tanto, personanan cu a caba EPI Horeca of Colegio Arubano tabata algo totalmente diferente. “E experiencia ta bunita, pasobra aki ta trata di un generacion diferente. Mi por a muestra ehempelnan na Aruba mes. Pa turismo, no mester bay leu di cas. No mester bay un Disney pa compronde e problemanan, e ehempelnan cu por usa pa por trece dilanti situacionnan cu ta topa den bukinan. E experiencia a yuda hopi pa splica e literatura.” Lee por a usa realidadnan na Aruba pa ilustra e materia. “E experiencia den e ramo ta hopi valioso y ta us’e pa e studiantenan por reflexiona mas cerca di cas. Nan ta hopi critico, y nos ta brinda nan e oportunidad pa por cuminsa pensa mas critico riba diferente parti di nos turismo y conect’e back na e literatura cu nan mester domina.”

“Mi por reconoce mi mes den e studiantenan. Ami a caba Colegio y bay studia na Hulanda, pero na mesun momento nos por wak nan crece y desaroya.” FHTMS ta brinda e grado di Bachelor of Science, un estudio di tres aña y ta mira con nan ta crece y ta desaroya nan habilidad. E ta hopi impresionante.” E Decano nobo ta ilustra con fascinante e ta pa mira hobennan drenta e prome aña, cu hopi reserva, cu berguensa pa bisa algo, y ora di haci presentacion, nan ta haya miedo. “Y e ora ey mi por bisa nan cu mi tambe a pasa den un experiencia asina, anto awor mi ta para dilanti klas. Bo ta desaroya bo habilidadnan y nos kier pa nan desaroya nan habilidadnan, entre otro di comunicacion, pero tambe social. Esey ta e parti ‘great.’” Sue Ann Lee, cu su 6 añanan na Universidad di Aruba a mira dos grupo di estudiante gradua, y ta momentonan cu ta yene cu hopi alegria. “E ta asina impresionante pa mira con un estudiante a drenta pa finalisa su estudio cu presentacion di su tesis, con nan a crece y nan mes ta trece dilanti e area cu nan a descubri cu nan a gusta pa haci investigacion.”

E funcion di Decano no uno fiho. Un Decano ta e persona cu ta guia e facultad, pero normalmente ta scoge e persona pa medio di eleccion unda e propio staff y representante di estudiante den cada aña di nan estudio, a participa. Tin tres aña, “pues nos tin freshmen, juniors y seniors, y tur luna tin reunion di henter e facultad. John Wardlaw tabata na encargo di e facultad pa casi 12 aña y a laga sa cu no ta sigui mas. Pero John tin algun tempo caba ta bisa cu e no kier sigui, pero asina mes nos a sigui vota p’e.” Sinembargo, Wardlaw e aña aki a bisa bon cla cu no kier nomin’e ni pa vota p’e. E tabata kier otro hende pa tuma su luga. “Esaki ta como di tres biaha cu el a bisa esaki. Pues patras den mi cabez cu e dia ta bay yega y mi coleganan no tabata reacciona. Y dia cu el a (Wardlaw) bisa cu esey, ma dicidi pa postula mi mes, pero dunando mi coleganan tambe e espacio pa bisa cu nan kier e funcion. Pero ningun hende a postula nan mes, pues ami tabata e unico nomina,” Sue Ann a bisa na harimento. Pero asina mes e mester a pasa den e proceso. “E ta un posicion di dos aña, pues aki dos aña lo mi mester bolbe pasa den un proceso di votacion si otro colega kier e funcion.” E votacion ta sosode durante e ‘faculty meeting,’ unda tur e staff ta presente pa pasa riba programanan di estudio, con e lesnan ta bayendo. Studiantenan tambe ta oportunidad pa duna nan contribucion den locual nan ta considera importante den e lesnan mes, di e docentenan, operacion di Universidad. Tur por trece punto dilanti y e Decano ta esun cu ta guia e proceso.”

E trabao pues lo bira uno mas administrativo, Lee a splica. E ta maneha e programa, ta tene reunion cu maneho, y trata cu tur locual studiantenan ta confronta. “Mi lo sigui duna les, pero menos ora. Mi tabata duna tres les pa semester, pero awor e ta bay ta un les.” E forma con Sue Ann Lee lo maneha ta bay ta diferente cu di Wardlaw, den sentido cu e kier pa tur hende carga mas responsabilidad. “Mi ta bay sigui duna les, pues mi no por bay carga tur cos.” Den otro palabra, su forma di maneha lo ta delega.

Famia y baby

Su pareha tabata sa cu Sue Ann tabata interesa den e funcion di Decano, cu tin mucho mas responsabilidad, por ehempel di traha mercadeo, procedura, cu ta nifica mas ora di trabao. “Como lecturer, mi tabata duna les mainta y tin mas flexibilidad merdia y anochi. Pero awor ta bay tin otro actividad como parti di trabao, manera eventonan di Universidad di Aruba mes. “E orarionan lo cambia, ma bisa mi yiunan. ‘Por ta boso lo wak Mami menos,’” Lee a agrega. “Pero awor nan sa cu e baby ta biniendo.”

E decision pa bira Decano a bin prome cu e baby, pero pa Sue Ann Lee, e ta djis otro reto mas pa organisa, pa por maneha FHTMS banda di su responsabilidadnan como Mama di cuater yiu. No tin motibo pa duda cu Sue Ann Lee lo logra esaki tambe.

Den corte di estado, Long Island Nassau County, negociante Charles Polevich a admiti cu el a fuga for di e escena di e accident fatal den februari di ana pasa, den cual Robert Maraj a keda herida fatalmente ora cu e tabata crusando caminda na Mineola.

Polevich inicialmente a sali for di su auto y a mira e homber herida riba vloer, y el a dreña su auto back y sigui

Den un entrevista, Ray J ta mantene su posicion cu Kris y Kim a planea di traha un 'sex tape' despues di e éxito financiero enorme di esun di Paris Hilton. Fuentenan di e otro banda ta contradeci esaki, bisando cu e no tabatin nada di haber den e plan di e video, y aparentemente Kris no tabata involucra den e trato, ni tampoco tabatin contacto cu Vivid.

Claramente, esaki no ta nifica cu Kris no tabata trahando tras di escena, segun Ray J.

Manera a reporta, aunke e Kardashians a bisa cu nunca nan no a firma nada relaciona cu e video, e realidad ta cu Vivid no lo por a lansa e video sin e firma di Kim y Ray, y si nan lo a haci esaki, nan lo a ricibi un demanda grandi, pa motibo cu Vivid no por haci uso di e nomber ni imagen di un persona den video ni cualkier formato sin nan consentimiento.

Kim efectivamente a demanda Vivid prome cu e video a keda lansa, pero e demanda aki a keda retira, pa motibo cu aparentemente su persona y Ray tabata kier a yega na e trato cu nan kier y aisna por habri caminda pa e lansamento di e video.

Pa loke ta trata finanzas, aparentemente Kim y Ray a split 1 miyon dollar entre nan dos, y hunto cada un a ricibi un porcentahe di e ganashinan di e video. E sex tape aki ta e sex tape cu mas ganashi a genera, ganando esun di Paris Hilton.

drs. Mervin Wyatt-Ras (AVP):

Sosten di nos mamanan ta esencial den e situacion precario di nos pais

En conexion cu dia di mama Parlamentario drs. Mervin Wyatt-Ras ta felicita tur mama. Riba e dia aki mundialmente ta rindi honor na nos mama, e ser cardinal den famia cu ta carga su yiu durante 9 luna, ta duna luz y den mayoria caso mundialmente ta responsabel pa educacion y cuido di su yiu.

Antes na Aruba un mama no tabata haci trabao paga y tabata keda cas pa cuida y educa su yiu, mientras e tata tabata traha y provee financieramente pa su famia. Mas y mas durante ultimo decanan mamanan a uni nan mes na e sector laboral. Na Aruba en especial despues di ciera di Lago, cu hopi hende homber a perde trabao den e refineria, un cantidad di hende muher cu ta alabes mama a haci nan entrada riba mercado laboral.

Un cantidad di hende muher cu ta mama a labora y ta trahando den e ofishinan menos paga y den hotelnan. Hende muhernan-mama taba(ta) pasa hopi tempo for di cas, dor di cual nan famia, yiu y comunidad a sinti e efecto. Problemanan di pareha, relacional, educativo y psicologico a aumenta. Den añanan nobenta a bira necesario pa lanta Centronan di Cuido pa zorg y educa yiu di mamanan cu ta traha. Asina Centronan di Cuido, Crèchenan y tambe Traimeridianan a conoce nan existencia.

Na anja 2001 Parlamento di Aruba a reglamenta Centronan di Cuido of Crèchenan pa medio di e Ley di Kinderopvang. Na 2017 a aproba cambio di e ley aki, sin embargo te ainda dicho ley no a ser implementa pa garantisca cuido cualitativo di mucha, mientras mamanan ta traha.

Un otro ley cu Wyatt-Ras mes tabata un di e iniciadornan di dje ta e Ley di "Zwangerschapsverlof" cual ley a ser aproba dor di Parlamento na anja 2007. E ley aki a duna mamanan mas tempo cu nan baby prome y despues di parto. Tambe a ofrece e posibilidad di kolf lechi materno na trabao y ofrece e mama e oportunidad di traha 2 ora menos tur dia pa 9 luna despues di e parto. Cu cambio di e ley aki a boga pa duna e mama cu haya baby e oportunidad di keda mas ora cu su yiu pa facilita e proceso di "bonding" of cera un band cu su baby, prome y despues di parto. Tambe dunamento di pecho na e baby ta stimula desaroyo sano y ta preveni sobrepeso y cierto malesanan cronico. A lanta Pro Lechi Mama pa traha preventivo y garantisca cu ta cumpli cu e ley.

Na e momentonan aki por bisa cu e hende muher-mama ta pasando den un situacion dificil. Ya prome cu COVID-19 e poder di compra di famianan, specialmente di famianan vulnerabel y di mamanan specialmente esnan soltero, a disminui. Despues di e shutdown di nos pais na 2020, e situacion di nos ciudadanonan y di mamanan (soltero) sin trabao a empeora. Tanto desempleo como falta di poder di compra y medidanan na caminda ta haci cu famianan y mamanan no por mas. Tin tanto problema financiero como social-psicologico. E impacto ta alabes riba nos futuro generacion. Landspakketten y medidanan na caminda lo empeora e situacion mas ainda. Ta necesario accion y sosten urgente di famianan y mamanan pa alivia pobresa grandi den nos pais.

Tambe ta necesario proteccion di nos mamanan di mas edad. Nan a cuida bon pa nan yiu y ta necesario proteha nan y garantisca cu na momento cu nan tin necesidad nan ta ser scucha y yuda.

Tur esaki ta rekeri cu en bes cu gobernantenan ta sinta gaba cuanto nan ta aprecia mamanan cu palabranan bunita den anoncionan caro, nan mester transforma e palabranan aki den actonan concreto pa alivia e situacion deplorabel, precario y preocupante di mamanan den nos pais. Wyatt-Ras ta gradici tur mama pa nan esfuerso pa saca nan famia padilanti y ta spera nan pasa un bon dia den compania di nan famia. Tambe e ta desea tur esnan cu ya no tin nan mama mas na bida hopi forza y conformidad cu esaki.

Ademá, el a bisa e programa, tabatin un 'guera den su mente' pa añas y cu el a purba di mata su mes cinco biaha. Un di e intentonan aki tabata 'relaciona na e granja di cuido', el a bisa.

Diabierna, polis a confirma cu e tabata un pashent eyan. Un muhe di 34 aña y un mucha muhe di 16 aña di edad a wordo mata, y un muhe di 20 aña y un mucha homber di 12 aña di edad a resulta seriamente herido den e atake, cu a tuma lugar tiki prome cu 11am diabierna ultimo.

E dos persona cu a sobreviví e atake ta seriamente malo den hospital.

"Alblasserdam ta den shock", alcalde Jaap Paans a bisa un conferencia di prensa riba diabierna. "Cantidad di hende tabata testigo di e teribel evento aki. Mi a papia cu familiar, cliente, boluntario y trahadornan, y nan a papia di e miedo y lamento cu nan a experimenta."

E zorgboerderij, of granja di cuido, ta un concepto cu ta

permiti hende cu problema of discapacidad pa traha cu animal of cu e tereno, como terapia ocupacional.

(CuraçaoChronicle) – Ganashi di ING den kwartaal a reduci na mita como resultado di e guerra na Ucrania. Pa motibo di e conflicto, e grupo financiero a pone un banda 834 miyon euro pa prestamonan pa companianan, cu tal bes nunca ta bay wordo paga back. Como resultado, e 'stopping pot' a aumenta considerablemente.

Bao di e linea, e intervencion mayor aki a laga apenas 429 miyon euro di ganashi. Den e prome kwartaal di aña pasa, e ganashi tabata un tiki mas cu un biyon euro.

Pa motibo di e guerra na Ucrania, ING ya a interveni na su sucursal Ruso, cual ta dunado di trabao pa alrededor di 300 persona. Na comienso di maart, e banco a dicidi pa stop di haci negoshi nobo cu companianan Ruso. ING tin e interesnan mas grandi na Rusia, di tur banco Hulandes.

Guera na Ucrania a reduci ganashi di ING na mita

Cu e stapnan anuncia, ING ainda no ta bayendo mesun leu cu algun di e otro. Por ehemplo, Rabobank ya a anuncia pa fin di maart cu lo retira completamente for di Rusia. Pero segun CEO di ING, Steven van Rijkswijk, e escogencianan di ING na final tambe ta nifica cu ta elimina gradualmente su presencia na Rusia. "Si bo kier deshaci di prestamonan como banco, bo ta haci esey door di haya pago back", el a bisa den un splicacion di e resultadonan pa e kwartaal. E proceso di repago ya a cuminsa. Van Rijkswijk ta bisa cu e banco ainda tin 5.8 biyon euro den prestamonan pen-diente den mercado Ruso. Esey ta como un biyon euro menos cu anteriormente. E CEO no por bisa kico ta bay pasa cu actividadnan na Rusia a largo plaso.

Aparte di e impacto di e conflicto, ING tabata capaz di por haci bon negoshi den e periodo anterior, segun Van Rijkswijk. Entrada di interes, por ehemplo, tabata moviendo den e direccion corecto, el a bisa. ING ta beneficiando di e aumento di tasa di interes den mercadonan financiero. Tasanan di interes abao a pone hopi presion riba e modelo di ganashi di e banco den añanan recien, y awo cu esaki ta cambiando gradualmente, ta bon noticia pa e banco. ING tambe a anuncia cu ta bay cumpra back 380 miyon euro di su propio accionnan como un manera pa recompensa accionistanan.

Inflacion halto, cu cobransanan mas halto pa energia y gasolin caro na pompstation, ainda no a causa problemanan mayor pa clientenan di e banco, segun ING.

E sosten di Covid-19 di gobierno cu a termina tampoco tabatin un impacto masivo. Por ehemplo, e grupo no ta mira un fluho grandi di compania den e departamento di management special, unda ta acomoda casonan problematico. ING tin un mira di cerca riba e situacion y a bisa cu lo pone placa adicional un banda si ta necesario.

Personal di Aduana di Corsou ta bay ricibi nan pago di overtime (CuraçaoChronicle) – Empleadonan di Aduana pronto ta bay ricibi nan pago di overtime y uitkering pa cuminda pa e prome lunanan di e aña aki. Esaki a keda anuncia pa minister di Finanzas, Javier Sylvania, kende a bisa cu el a aproba e pago.

Den dianan recien tabatin malcontento entre oficialnan di Aduana. Via mensahenan di Facebook, e minister a anuncia cu el a pone e firmanan necesario y cu a entrega e documento na e Ministerio di Maneho, Planificacion y Servicio. Ta trata aki di 131 solicitud di empleadonan. Sylvania ta pidi nan pa compronde e retraso.

E siman aki, un reunion cu sindicato di Aduana, STRaF ta riba agenda. Durante e reunion, ta bay discuti asuntonan di personal y e progreso di e files di personal.

Na e momento aki, 38 file di empleadonan ta siendo procesa en conexion cu, entre otro asunto, beneficianan y uitkering. Desde mita di maart ultimo, dos gruponan di tarea special ta activo cu ta trata cu e maneho di e files di personal pendiente.

Dangerous winds, wildfire conditions returning to New Mexico

(AP) — After a few days of calm allowed some families who had fled wildfires raging in northeast New Mexico to return to their homes, dangerous winds picked up again Sunday, threatening to spread burning embers that could ignite new fires and complicate work for firefighters.

More than 1,500 firefighters were on the fire lines at the biggest blaze east and northeast of Santa Fe, which grew another 8 square miles (20 square kilometers) overnight to an area more than twice as large as the city of Philadelphia.

The area's largest rural town — Las Vegas, New Mexico, population 13,000 — appeared safe for now thanks to fire lines dug by bulldozers and other priority preparations over the past week.

But authorities appealed to residents on the outskirts who've already been ordered to evacuate to delay no longer.

"If things start picking up today as they are expected to do," fire spokesman Todd Abel warned Sunday, and "you are trying to leave the area and we are trying to go in, that obviously causes a lot of problems, congestion, confusion."

A red-flag warning was in effect, kicking off what fire officials predicted would be another "historic, multi-day wind event that could result in extreme fire behavior."

A few helicopters were able to gather new information from the air on the spread of the flames early Sunday "but they won't be up there very long because of the winds out there," Abel said.

"The wind is incredible. It is precedent setting, the amount of wind we are going to have and the duration we are going to have it," he said a briefing Sunday in Las Vegas.

"They are predicting the wind to blow all day today, through the night, all day tomorrow so that is a long time for our fire," he said.

Thousands of residents have evacuated due to flames that have charred large swaths of the Sangre de Cristo Mountains in northeastern New Mexico — a total of 275 square miles (712 square kilometers).

The swirling winds gusting up to 50 mph (80 kph) made it difficult to predict where the flames would go later Sunday and into Monday.

Ryan Berlin, fire information officer, said Sunday afternoon the city of Las Vegas itself is "very safe at this point."

"We even started to repopulate a section of town already," he said. "Our concern right now is on the southwest portion of the fire which the wind is helping us out, sort of, because it's blowing the flames back into the fire."

But Wendy Mason with the New Mexico Forestry Division warned that "by no means" is anyone "out of potential danger."

"Just because the winds are coming from one direction doesn't mean they can't change direction so it's better to be prepared and have residents ready to go," she said.

"Any new fire that starts has a good potential of becoming extremely active and any ongoing fires we'll also see extreme activity because of this historic combination of fire weather that we're seeing right now," she added.

Abel said the good news was that additional fire crews continue to arrive from around the West.

For many California firefighters backing up local units, the winds in New Mexico are puzzling. Unlike the sustained Santa Ana winds in southern California, the air around the Hermit's Peak/Calf Canyon fires in New Mexico have swirled around and been redirected in complex and changing interactions with the mountains.

"We'll see what happens," said fire battalion chief Ryan Lewis, of Ontario, California, on a rare break with his firefighters at a local hotel that's serving hot meals to fire workers and evacuees.

Nationwide, close to 2,000 square miles (5,180 square kilometers) have burned so far this year, with 2018 being the last time this much fire had been reported at this point, according to the National Interagency Fire Center. And predictions for the rest of the spring do not bode well for the West, where long-term drought and warmer temperatures brought on by climate change have combined to worsen the threat of wildfire.

Local officials on Saturday allowed residents of several areas on the northwestern outskirts of Las Vegas to return to their homes.

Shops and restaurants in the town had reopened Saturday and the historic center was no longer just populated by firefighters. Still, there was a widely felt sense of anxiety, loss, and wariness of what lay ahead.

"It's literally like living under a dark cloud," said Liz Birmingham, whose daughter had persistent headaches from the smoke. "It's unnerving."

Less immigrant labor in US contributing to price hikes

(AP) - Just 10 miles from the Rio Grande, Mike Helle's farm is so short of immigrant workers that he's replaced 450 acres of labor-intensive leafy greens with crops that can be harvested by machinery.

In Houston, Al Flores increased the price of his BBQ restaurant's brisket plate because the cost of the cut doubled due to meatpacking plants' inability to fully staff immigrant-heavy production lines. In the Dallas area, Joshua Correa raised prices on the homes his company builds by $150,000 to cover increased costs stemming partly from a lack of immigrant labor.

After immigration to the United States tapered off during the Trump administration — then ground to a near complete halt for 18 months during the coronavirus pandemic — the country is waking up to a labor shortage partly fueled by that slowdown.

The U.S. has, by some estimates, 2 million fewer immigrants than it would have if the pace had stayed the same, helping power a desperate scramble for workers in many sectors, from meatpacking to homebuilding, that is also contributing to supply shortages and price increases.

"These 2 million missing immigrants are part of the reason we have a labor shortage," said Giovanni Peri, an economist at the University of California at Davis, who calculated the shortfall. "In the short run, we are going to adjust to these shortages in the labor market through an increase in wages and in prices."

The labor issues are among several contributors to the highest inflation in 40 years in the United States — from supply chains mangled by the pandemic to a surge in energy and commodity prices following Russia's invasion of Ukraine.

Steve Camarota, a researcher at the Center for Immigration Studies, which advocates for less immigration, believes a spike in illegal immigration under President Joe Biden will make up whatever shortfall lingers from the pandemic. He also contends wage increases in low-paying sectors like agriculture are minor contributors to inflation.

"I don't think wages going up is bad for the poor, and I think mathematically it is not possible to drive down inflation by limiting wages at the bottom," Camarota told The Associated Press.

Immigration is rapidly returning to its pre-pandemic levels, researchers say, but the U.S. would need a significant acceleration to make up its deficit. Given a sharp decline in births in the United States over the past two decades, some economists forecast the overall pool of potential workers will start shrinking by 2025.

The immigrant worker shortage comes as the U.S. political system is showing less of an appetite for increasing immigration. Democrats — who control all branches of the federal government and more recently have been the party more friendly to immigration — haven't tried to advance major legislation permitting more new residents to the country. A recent Gallup poll showed worries about illegal immigration at a two-decade high. With a tough election for their party looming in November, Democrats are increasingly divided about the Biden administration's attempt to end pandemic-related restrictions on seeking asylum.

"At some point we either decide to become older and smaller or we change our immigration policy," said Douglas Holtz-Eakin, an economist and former official in President George W. Bush's administration who is president of the center-right American Action Forum. He acknowledged a change in immigration policy is unlikely: "The bases of both parties are so locked in."

That's certainly the case in Republican-dominated Texas, which includes the longest and busiest stretch of the southern border. The Legislature in 2017 forced cities to comply with federal immigration agents seeking people who are in the U.S. illegally. Gov. Greg Abbott sent the Texas National Guard to patrol the border and recently created traffic snarls by ordering more inspections at border ports.

The turn against immigration distresses some Texas business owners. "Immigration is very important for our workforce in the United States," said Correa. "We just need it."

He's seeing delays of two to three months on his projects as he and his subcontractors — from drywallers to plumbers to electricians — struggle to field crews. Correa has raised the standard price of his houses from $500,000 to about $650,000.

"We're feeling it and, if we're feeling it at the end of the day as builders and developers, the consumer pays the price," said Correa, who spoke from Pensacola, Florida, where he brought a construction crew as a favor to a client whose hasn't been able to find laborers to fix a beach house damaged by Hurricane Sally in 2020.

The share of the U.S. population born in another country — 13.5% in the latest census — is the highest it has been since the 19th century. But even before Donald Trump won the 2016 presidential election vowing to cut immigration, migration to the United States was slowing. The Great Recession dried up many jobs that drew workers to the country, legally or illegally. Rising standards of living in Latin America have prodded more people to stay put — or to return from the United States.

Flores, who runs a chain of Mexican restaurants as well as his barbecue restaurant, said while the COVID-19 pandemic was a bigger shock to his industry, the immigration slowdown has hit it hard — and not just for meatpackers that supply his restaurant's brisket. "You've got a lot of positions that aren't being filled," he said.

He's steadily raised pay, up to $15 an hour recently. "This is a culmination of years and years," said Flores, who's president of the Greater Houston Restaurant Association.

Fire at Wisconsin anti-abortion office investigated as arson

(AP) — Arson investigators were probing a fire Sunday inside the headquarters of anti-abortion group Wisconsin Family Action, where someone had spray-painted a message outside the building.

Madison police spokeswoman Stephanie Fryer told the Wisconsin State Journal that the fire reported shortly after 6 a.m. Sunday in Madison was suspicious in nature. No one was injured, and officials were still working to determine how much damage the fire caused.

It wasn't immediately clear who vandalized the building, but the message "If abortions aren't safe than you aren't either" was spray-painted on the building.

The president of the lobbying group, Julaine Appling, said she considers the fire a "direct threat against us" given that it happened just a few days after a draft of a U.S. Supreme Court opinion was leaked suggesting the court may soon overturn the Roe v. Wade decision that legalized abortion in this country. She said people could have been hurt if they had been working in the office at the time.

"This is the local manifestation of the anger and the lack of tolerance from the pro-abortion people toward those of us who are pro-life," Appling said.

Wisconsin politicians, including Democratic Madison Mayor Satya Rhodes-Conway, swiftly criticized the vandalism Sunday.

"This attack is abhorrent and should be condemned by all," Republican U.S. Sen. Ron Johnson said.

Democratic U.S. Senate candidate Tom Nelson also denounced the vandalism.

"I am committed to protecting women's rights - but we must do it the right way," Nelson said. "Violence and destruction are not the answer. I'm glad no one was hurt."

St. Louis seeking to boost population with Afghan refugees

(AP) — Inamullah Niazaei sits on the front porch step of his red-brick St. Louis home and smiles at the bustle of activity around him — his mother and father chatting in the front yard, his two young daughters munching chocolate ice cream bars.

“Anything is possible here,” Niazaei, 23, said. “We are so lucky that my family can be here, together.”

An aggressive effort in St. Louis is trying to lure Afghan refugees like Niazaei. About 600 have arrived so far and another 750 are expected later this year.

Civic leaders are hopeful that over the next few years, thousands more will decide to relocate to the Midwestern city, helping to offset seven decades of population loss and rejuvenate urban neighborhoods — just as the arrival of Bosnian refugees did three decades ago.

It’s been nearly nine months since the Afghan capital of Kabul was ceded to the Taliban. Since last summer, more than 76,000 Afghan refugees have relocated to the U.S. While California and Texas have taken in most of the displaced Afghans, many will eventually go elsewhere.

In the 1990s, St. Louis became America’s most popular landing spot for Bosnians displaced by war in the former Yugoslavia. Among the estimated 300,000 who fled to the U.S., some 40,000 now call St. Louis and the region home.

They revitalized an area of the city’s south side that is now often referred to as Little Bosnia. The area features Bosnian-owned markets, coffee shops, auto repair shops and other businesses. They have their own online newspaper, their own chamber of commerce.

The Bosnians also provided a badly needed population boost in a city that’s been losing people at an alarming rate, dropping from a peak of over 850,000 in 1950 to just under 300,000 today.

St. Louis’ Afghan Resettlement Initiative is backed by over $1 million in donations and more than 800 volunteers, and it has support from the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of St. Louis, the International Institute of St. Louis and other nonprofit groups. Advocates say they’ve received no opposition to their efforts.

Jerry Schlichter, an attorney who is the organizer and a major funder, said the initiative helps find housing and jobs, connects new arrivals to training such as classes on computer coding, and provides grants for business startups.

The St. Louis effort also provided money to establish an online Afghan newspaper, a chamber of commerce and a community center.

“There’s a mutual need. We have been stagnant,” Schlichter said. “With this one-time opportunity with Afghan refugees ending up somewhere in this country, we should take advantage of it.”

Arrey Obenson, president and CEO of the International Institute of St. Louis, said he’s confident that the new refugees will revitalize neighborhoods, just as the Bosnians did.

“The reality of the circumstance we face is that if we look at St. Louis city and the rate the population is declining, we have to find a way to bring people into the community to turn that around,” Obenson said.

St. Louis isn’t the only city with a declining population trying to attract Afghan refugees.

Detroit also reached its population apex in 1950, when 1.85 million people lived there. Today, the population has dropped by two-thirds, to about 640,000.

Detroit corporate and community leaders in April launched the Detroit Refugee Network, with hopes of raising more than $1 million to provide services such as housing, education, transportation and language training. About 250 Afghan refugees have settled in Detroit, with another 400 or so elsewhere in southeastern Michigan.

Like St. Louis, history in Detroit has proven the value immigrants can bring, said Steve Tobocman, executive director of Global Detroit.

Tobocman and Alan Mallach, a senior fellow with the Center for Community Progress, studied two Detroit neighborhoods filled with immigrants from Bangladesh, Yemen, Mexico, and Central and South America. Those two neighborhoods have grown by nearly 50% in the past two decades or so.

The result is less crime, well over 100 new businesses and reductions in home vacancies and tax foreclosures, the study found. Residents surveyed were more satisfied and optimistic than Detroit residents as a whole.

“Depopulation is what really cycles these neighborhoods into some pretty dire circumstances,” Tobocman said. “The vacancy, the lack of retail opportunity, the lack of jobs. Just stabilizing the population or in a couple of cases regrowing the population can reverse that course.”

A major hurdle for Afghan refugees is housing. Across the country, thousands still live in hotels.

But by early May, only two Afghan families were still in St. Louis hotels because the initiative has a program guaranteeing payment to landlords, Schlichter and Obenson said.

Niazaei, his wife and their two young daughters fled Kabul last year. They were sent first to Washington, D.C., then to temporary housing in Texas. They chose to end up in St. Louis because other relatives were already here.

The initiative helped find them a place to rent — a brick home on a quiet street a few miles south of the Gateway Arch that now is home to 11 family members. Volunteers provided furniture, food and what Niazaei called “welcome money.” Someone even gave him a car.

Niazaei said he feels at home in St. Louis.

“We will stay,” he said. “My future is good here.”

Workers grapple with new stresses as they return to office

(AP) — Last summer, Julio Carmona started the process of weaning himself off a fully remote work schedule by showing up to the office once a week.

The new hybrid schedule at his job at a state agency in Stratford, Connecticut, still enabled him to spend time cooking dinner for his family and taking his teenage daughter to basketball.

But in the next few months, he’s facing the likelihood of more mandatory days in the office. And that’s creating stress for the father of three.

Carmona, 37, whose father died from COVID-19 last year, worries about contracting the virus but he also ticks off a list of other anxieties: increased costs for lunch and gas, day care costs for his newborn baby, and his struggle to maintain a healthy work-life balance.

“Working from home has been a lot less stressful when it comes to work-life balance,” said Carmona, who works in finance at Connecticut’s Department of Children and Families. “You are more productive because there are a lot less distractions.”

As more companies mandate

a return to the office, workers must readjust to pre-pandemic rituals like long commutes, juggling child care and physically interacting with colleagues. But such routines have become more difficult two years later. Spending more time with your colleagues could increase exposure to the coronavirus, for example, while inflation has increased costs for lunch and commuting.

Among workers who were remote and have gone back at least one day a week in-person, more say things in general have gotten better than worse and that they’ve been more productive rather than less, an April poll from The Associated Press-NORC Center for Public Affairs Research shows. But the level of stress for these workers is elevated.

Overall, among employed adults, the April AP-NORC poll shows 16% say they work remotely, 13% work both remotely and in-person and 72% say they work only in-person.

Beijing loyalist John Lee elected as Hong Kong's next leader

(AP) — John Lee, a hard-line security chief who oversaw a crackdown on Hong Kong's pro-democracy movement, was elected as the city's next leader on Sunday in a vote cast by a largely pro-Beijing committee.

Lee was the only candidate and won with over 99% of the vote in which nearly all 1,500 committee members were carefully vetted by the central government in Beijing.

He will replace current leader Carrie Lam on July 1. Her five-term was marked by huge pro-democracy protests calling for her resignation, a security crackdown that has quashed virtually all dissent, the recent COVID-19 wave that had overwhelmed the health system — events that have undermined Hong Kong's reputation as an international business hub with Western-style freedoms.

"I look forward to all of us starting a new chapter together, building a Hong Kong that is caring, open and vibrant, and a Hong Kong that is full of opportunities and harmony," Lee said in his victory speech.

Lam congratulated Lee in a statement and said she would submit the election results to Beijing.

The election followed major changes to Hong Kong's electoral laws last year to ensure that only "patriots" loyal to Beijing can hold office.

The legislature was also re-organized to all but eliminate opposition voices.

The elaborate arrangements surrounding the predetermined outcome speak to Beijing's desire for a veneer of democracy. The committee members voted in a secret ballot, and Lee's 1,416 votes were the highest support ever for the city's top leadership position.

Without opposition, Lee would likely have easier time governing Hong Kong compared to Lam, said Ivan Choy, a senior lecturer at the Chinese University of Hong Kong's Department of Government and Public Administration.

"A major reason for easier governance is that the electoral system has changed," he said. "In the legislature and the election committee, there is almost no political opposition and the political spectrum is concentrated towards the pro-establishment camp."

"With no democrats, it will be easier for the chief executive to govern as there are fewer checks and balances," he said.

The European Union's foreign policy chief Josep Borrell said that Lee's election "violates democratic principles and political pluralism in Hong Kong."

"Selection process is yet another step in the dismantling of the 'one country, two systems' principle," Borrell tweeted.

The Chinese government's liaison office in Hong Kong congratulated Lee and said the election was conducted in a "fair, just and orderly manner in accordance with laws and regulations."

Mainland China's Hong Kong and Macao Affairs Office of the State Council said in its congratulatory note that the "successful election" proved that the city's new electoral system is "good" and in line with the "one country, two systems" framework that Hong Kong is governed by.

Critics say freedom of speech and assembly that Hong Kong was promised to keep for 50 years when it was handed over by Britain to China in 1997 has vanished as Beijing exerts greater control over the territory.

On Sunday morning, three members of the League of Social Democrats, a local activist group, protested the election by attempting to march toward the election venue while displaying a banner demanding universal suffrage that would allow Hong Kongers to vote both for the legislature and the chief executive.

"Human rights over power, the people are greater than the country," the banner read. "One person, one vote for the chief executive. Immediately implement dual universal suffrage."

One protester was handing out flyers before police arrived and cordoned them off. Police also searched the protesters' belongings and took down their personal details, though they made no immediate arrests.

The pro-democracy camp in Hong Kong has long demanded universal suffrage, which they say is promised in its mini-constitution, the Basic Law. It was also a key demand during massive protests in 2014 and 2019.

Lee's role as Hong Kong's next leader has sparked concern that Beijing could further tighten its grip. He spent most of his civil service career in the police and security bureau, and is a staunch supporter of a national security law imposed on Hong Kong in 2020 to stamp out dissent.

As security secretary during 2019 clashes between police and demonstrators, he oversaw the use of tear gas and rubber bullets and arrests that snuffed out further protests.

More than 150 people have been arrested under the security law, which outlaws secession, subversion, terrorism and collusion with foreign forces in the city's affairs. Almost all prominent pro-democracy activists have been jailed, with others fleeing abroad or being intimidated into silence.

Thousands of residents have left the city of 7.4 million people amid the 2019 protests and subsequent harsh pandemic restrictions, including many professionals and expatriates.

In his election campaign in the weeks leading up to Sunday's polls, Lee pledged to enact long-shelved local legislation to protect against security threats and vowed to increase housing supply in the world's most expensive real estate market.

He also said he would improve the city's competitiveness and set a firm foundation for Hong Kong's development.

Center-right CDU heads to big state election win in Germany

(AP) — The center-right Christian Democratic Union appeared headed for a clear victory Sunday in Germany's northern state of Schleswig-Holstein, according to exit polls.

Sunday's election for the state legislature was seen as a ballot box popularity test for Chancellor Olaf Scholz's government amid its handling of the war in Ukraine. The vote appeared to give the CDU, the party of former Chancellor Angela Merkel — which is in opposition to Scholz's government at the national level — a strong victory after a string of electoral losses.

Exit polls for ARD and ZDF television put Sunday's support for the CDU at 41% to 43%, well ahead of the other parties. Scholz's center-left Social Democrats appeared to drop to third place behind the Greens, with exit polls showing them winning 15.5% to 16% compared with 17% to 19.5% for the Greens. These exit polls indicate that incumbent governor Daniel Günther, whose CDU has led Schleswig-Holstein since 2017, governing in a coalition with the environmentalist Greens and the pro-business Free Democrats, is on course to secure another term in Germany's northernmost state, home to approximately 2.9 million people.

The vote came after a turbulent few months for the Social Democrat's Scholz, who took office in December at the head of a three-party coalition government with the Greens and the Free Democrats. In recent weeks, Scholz has faced criticism for his approach to the war in Ukraine.

Germany broke with tradition after Russia's invasion to supply arms to Ukraine but has been criticized by Kyiv for perceived hesitancy and slowness in providing material.

Sunday's election was the second of three state elections within two months that will set the political tone in Germany for the coming year.

In late March, Scholz's Social Democrats secured a major victory in the small western state of Saarland, which the CDU had led since 1999. The most important vote, on May 15, is in Germany's most populous state, North Rhine-Westphalia.

The vote is a bright spot for the CDU, which has suffered losses at the state and national levels in recent months. After last fall's general election, the party was relegated to the opposition on the national level for the first time in 16 years.

Compared with five years ago, the CDU and the Greens on Sunday appear to have made significant gains while the Social Democrats sustained big losses. During the last state election in 2017, the CDU won 32%, followed by the Social Democrats at 27.3% and the Greens at 12.9%.

Burkina Faso's displaced numbers swell amid jihadi violence

(AP) — Ami Sana hangs a tattered tarp for a bit of shade where she can rest on a break from pounding stones under the scorching sun.

"The work is hard. It makes my body weak, but what else can I do?" she asked.

The mother of six is one of 2 million people displaced by Burkina Faso's rapidly rising Islamic extremist violence, according to the U.N.

Amid the clamor of clanging pickaxes and falling rocks, Sana has found work in the Pissy granite mine on the outskirts of Burkina Faso's capital, Ouagadougou.

Lifting heavy rocks and hammering them into gravel to sell to construction companies is tough work that doesn't earn her enough to adequately feed or educate her children, Sana said. But it's the best work that she could find.

The rush of civilians from rural villages plagued by extremist violence has put pressure on Burkina Faso's cities.

"Some of the host cities have doubled or tripled in size in the past three years, and their infrastructures are often stretched to a breaking point," said Hassane Hamadou, country director for the Norwegian Refugee Council.

"Schools can't absorb all the new children, water points can't provide enough for all. Hundreds of thousands are left without access to an education, clean water or health-care as a result," he said.

The influx of displaced people is causing competition among the approximately 3,000 people working at the granite mine. At least 500 displaced people started working at the mine last year making it harder for the original miners to earn a living, said

Abiba Tiemtore, head of the site.

"With more people, it's hard to collect as many rocks and it's impacting our daily income," she said. Miners who used to make approximately $1 a day say they are now lucky if they make 80 cents.

When it seized power in January, Burkina Faso's ruling junta vowed to stamp out extremist violence but it has done little about the swelling numbers of displaced.

The government has a responsibility to provide the swelling numbers of displaced with those social services, said Alexandra Lamarche, senior advocate for West and Central Africa for Refugees International.

The minister of humanitarian affairs did not respond to a request for comment on the situation.

So far the junta has not succeeded in stemming the extremist violence. In January, 160,000 people were newly displaced, the second-largest monthly increase in three years, according to a report by international aid groups. Hard-hit areas like the Center North region, which hosts Burkina Faso's largest displaced population, are buckling under the pressure.

"The impact of people moving from their farms into big cities is disorientation (and) the increase of poverty (and) fear," said Abdoulaye Pafadnam, former mayor of Barsalogho, one of the main towns in the Center North region.

The violence is cutting off access for aid groups to reach people in need. Roads that were safe to travel six months ago are lined with explosives and the United Nations had only one helicopter until recently to transport people and aid across the country.

The pressure on cities has also started creating rifts between some host and displaced communities. In the northern town of Ouahigouya, people sheltering in a crowded displacement camp said locals chase them from the forest if they try to chop wood for cooking, accusing them of trying to destroy it.

With no end to the jihadi violence in sight, the numbers of Burkina Faso's displaced are expected to continue flooding urban centers where they'll be hunting for jobs.

"I worry that I have no means to take care of my children," said Fati Ouedraogo, a displaced mother of 10 in Ouahigouya. "When the children are crying I don't know what to do."

Detailed 'open source' news investigations are catching on

(AP) — One of the more striking pieces of journalism from the Ukraine war featured intercepted radio transmissions from Russian soldiers indicating an invasion in disarray, their conversations even interrupted by a hacker literally whistling "Dixie."

It was the work of an investigations unit at The New York Times that specializes in open-source reporting, using publicly available material like satellite images, mobile phone or security camera recordings, geolocation and other internet tools to tell stories.

The field is in its infancy but rapidly catching on. The Washington Post announced last month it was adding six people to its video forensics team, doubling its size. The University of California at Berkeley last fall became the first college to offer an investigative reporting class that focuses specifically on these techniques.

Two video reports from open-source teams — The Times' "Day of Rage" reconstruction of the Jan. 6, 2021, Capitol riot and the Post's look at how a 2020 racial protest in Washington's Lafayette Square was cleared out — won duPont-Columbia awards for excellence in digital and broadcast journalism.

The Ukraine radio transmissions, where soldiers complained about a lack of supplies and faulty equipment, were verified and brought to life with video and eyewitness reports from the town where they were operating.

At one point, what appears to be a Ukrainian interloper breaks in.

"Go home," he advised in Russian. "It's better to be a deserter than fertilizer."

The Times' visual investigations unit, founded in 2017 and now numbering 17 staff members, "is absolutely one of the most exciting areas of growth that we have," said Joe Kahn, incoming executive editor.

The work is meticulous. "Day of Rage" is composed mostly of video shot by protesters themselves, in the heady days before they realized posting them online could get them into trouble, along with material from law enforcement and journalists. It outlines specifically how the attack began, who the ringleaders were and how people were killed.

Video sleuthing also contradicted an initial Pentagon story about an American drone strike that killed civilians in Afghanistan last year. "Looking to us for protection, they instead became some of the last victims in America's longest war," the report said.

"There's just this overwhelming amount of evidence out there on the open web that if you know how to turn over the rocks and uncover that information, you can connect the dots between all these factoids to arrive at the indisputable truth around an event," said Malachy Browne, senior story producer on the Times' team.

Impressive Alcaraz wins in Madrid for 4th title of the year

(AP) — When Carlos Alcaraz played in his first Madrid Open as an 18-year-old, his goal was to gain experience and learn from the top players.

Only a year later, Alcaraz already feels he belongs among the best.

The Spanish teenage sensation capped another impressive week with a straight-set victory over Alexander Zverev on Sunday to win the Madrid Open and become the second-youngest player to win two Masters 1000 titles.

His comfortable 6-3, 6-1 win over Zverev followed victories over his idol Rafael Nadal in the quarterfinals and top-ranked Novak Djokovic in the semifinals.

“Last year I was going through these experiences for the first time, playing against the best players, playing in the Masters 1000, and I learned a lot,” Alcaraz said. “Now it’s different. I go onto the court knowing that I can win, with the confidence that I can win at any moment.”

Alcaraz became the youngest winner in Madrid, and the second youngest to win two Masters 1000 trophies after Nadal won in Monte Carlo and Rome in 2005. Alcaraz had already become the youngest to enter the top 10 since Nadal did it in 2005.

“It feels great to be able to beat these players,” the 19-year-old Alcaraz said. “To beat two of the best players in history and then Zverev, the world No. 3. He is a great player. I would say this is the best week of my life.”

It was the seventh straight win over a top-10 player for Alcaraz, and his tour-leading fourth title of the year. He also has the most wins this season with 28, one more than Stefanos Tsitsipas.

Zverev was trying to win his second consecutive Madrid title, and third overall. He had only praise for Alcaraz after the match.

“Right now you are the best player in the world,” Zverev said before the trophy ceremony and joked about his opponent’s age. “Even though you are still 5 years old, you are still beating us all, so great to see for tennis that we have such a new superstar who is going to win many Grand Slams, who is going to be No. 1 and is going to win this tournament many times.”

Alcaraz had won his first Masters 1000 tournament in Miami earlier this year. He had also won in Rio de Janeiro and Barcelona. His first career title came in Umag last year.

Alcaraz’s three losses this season came against Sebastian Korda in Monte Carlo, Nadal in Indian Wells and Matteo Berrettini in the Australian Open.

After long three-set wins over Nadal and Djokovic, the seventh-seeded Alcaraz kept his high energy from the start against Zverev and was in control throughout the match at the “Caja Mágica” center court.

He didn’t face any break points and converted four of the eight he had against the second-seeded Zverev. Alcaraz had 11 unforced errors compared to 25 by Zverev.

“I am 19 years old, which I think is the key to be able to play long and tough matches in a row. I am feeling great physically,” Alcaraz said.

He said it was special to win in Madrid, where he first started watching tennis at an early age.

“Watching Rafa lift this trophy gave me a lot of power to work hard for this moment,” Alcaraz said. “It is a great moment for me. It is the first tournament I watched, so lifting the trophy today is so emotional.”

Djokovic playing his ‘best’ tennis ahead of French Open

(AP) — Novak Djokovic is optimistic about his game going into the French Open despite going another week without a title.

The top-ranked Djokovic is yet to win a trophy this season while trying to regain his best form after not being allowed to play in the Australian Open because he was not vaccinated for COVID-19.

Djokovic lost to young sensation Carlos Alcaraz in three sets in the semifinals of the Madrid Open on Saturday, when he was trying to make it to his second consecutive final after losing to Andrey Rublev in Serbia last month.

Despite the loss, Djokovic said he leaves Madrid feeling good about his preparations for the upcoming French Open, where he will defend his title.

“I definitely played very good tennis, I mean, the best that I have played this year,” Djokovic said. “Probably when the disappointment of losing this match passes, I will have a lot of positives to take away from this week.”

Djokovic said he felt he could have come away with the victory against the 19-year-old Alcaraz — one the hottest players on tour this season — if he had been “able to capitalize when it mattered” during the match of more than 3 1/2 hours at the “Caja Mágica” center court.

“I had a lot of chances,” he said. “It was a fantastic match. Great battle.”

The Madrid Open was only his fourth tournament of the year, and third on clay. He lost to 29th-ranked Alejandro Davidovich Fokina in his first match in Monte Carlo in his only other Masters 1000 appearance so far.

Djokovic did not play in Indian Wells and Miami. He will carry an 8-4 record on the season into Rome this week, with one of those victories coming after Andy Murray withdrew from their third-round match in Madrid because of a stomach illness.

Djokovic had opened his campaign in the Spanish capital with a two-set win over Gael Monfils. He comfortably defeated Hubert Hurkacz in two sets in the quarterfinals.

The 34-year-old Djokovic said after the match against Monfils it was “his best performance of the year” considering he hadn’t played well and lacked rhythm in the few tournaments he had played.

Djokovic had reached the quarterfinals in the only other tournament he played this year, losing to 72nd-ranked Jiri Vesely in Dubai in February.

The goal now is preparing to do well in Roland Garros, where he will try to win his third French Open.

“I think it’s on the good path, definitely,” he said.

Alvarez faces questions after first loss in nearly a decade

(AP) — Canelo Alvarez paused on his way to the ring to pose with his right fist high in the air, basking in the adulation of thousands of his frenzied fans expecting nothing more on this Cinco de Mayo weekend than another big win by a fighter already considered one of Mexico's all-time greats.

He left 12 rounds later with his first loss in nine years, seemingly as stunned by the unexpected outcome as the sold-out crowd that came to watch.

Dmitry Bivol didn't just beat Alvarez Saturday night at the T-Mobile Arena on the glittering Strip. He gave him a beating in a light heavyweight fight that wasn't nearly as close as the identical 115-113 cards turned in by the three ringside judges.

And now the questions begin. Did Alvarez take too big of a risk moving up to 175 pounds to take on a tough champion in Bivol? Did the loss to the Russian damage the legacy Alvarez has built in the last decade along with his status as the best pound-for-pound fighter in the world?

And, perhaps more importantly, what becomes of his third fight with Gennadiy Golovkin, a long-awaited mega bout that now surely won't be happening in September as planned, if at all?

No, one bad night may not wreck Alvarez's career. He has accomplished way too much for that.

But after perhaps his worst outing as a pro, there's work to be done before he's talked about in such elevated terms again.

"You have to expect it. It is boxing. No excuses," said Alvarez, who hadn't lost in 16 fights since dropping a decision in 2013 to Floyd Mayweather Jr. "I lost today and he won. He's a really good fighter."

Bivol was more than that on this night. He was a bigger, slicker fighter who did what Alvarez usually does to his opponents — impose his will on the man across the ring from him.

A 5-1 underdog despite being an undefeated champion, Bivol consistently beat Alvarez to the punch and wasn't afraid to trade inside with him. He was credited with landing 152 punches to just 85 for Alvarez, and out landed him in every round.

Fighting at 175 pounds always seemed a stretch for Alvarez, who beat Sergey Kovalev in his only other bout at light heavy. Fighting an unbeaten 175-pound champion turned out to be a bridge too far.

"We talked going into this fight how good Dmitry Bivol is, how tough this fight was and it was a punch-perfect performance," said Eddie Hearn, who promotes Alvarez. "He had to box exactly the way he did to win the fight. Did Canelo look a little bit flat? Did he look tired? I think it was the brilliance of Dmitry Bivol."

Alvarez admitted in the week before the fight that he was taking a big chance against Bivol but wanted fights that challenged him. Acutely aware of his legacy — particularly in Mexico — he was confident he could wear Bivol down over the course of the fight, just as he did before knocking Kovalev out in the 11th round of their 2019 fight.

But Kovalev was an aging fighter who was on the downside of his career. Bivol, on the other hand, was unbeaten and had never been in the kind of ring war that wears fighters down.

Instead, it was Alvarez who was marked up and looked the worse for wear when the bell sounded to end the final round. Alvarez said afterward he thought he did enough to win the bout, but the only real question for those watching in the arena and on pay-per-view was how much the judges might be swayed by Alvarez' reputation and the screams of his supporters every time he landed a punch.

The judges got it right, but barely. Perhaps intimidated by the crowd, they scored the first four rounds for Alvarez even as Bivol kept landing more punches. Curiously, all three had every round scored the same, something unheard of in any fight, much less a big championship bout.

And if all three hadn't given the last three rounds to Bivol, Alvarez would have escaped to fight another night with his huge fight planned for September with Golovkin still intact.

"Sorry I broke your plans with Gennadiy Golovkin," Bivol said.

Now there will be new plans, including a possible rematch that Alvarez was talking about even before he left the ring.

Yes, he lost. But even in a bad loss there's always a path forward.

"It doesn't end like this," Alvarez said.

81-1 shot Rich Strike won the Kentucky Derby

(AP) - This doesn't happen. Horses at odds of nearly 81-1 don't win the Kentucky Derby. Jockeys who have never won any big stakes race of any kind don't win the Kentucky Derby. Owners with fewer than 10 career wins don't win the Kentucky Derby.

Rich Strike and his connections disagree with those sentiments.

One of the biggest upsets in racing history happened Saturday in the Kentucky Derby, when Rich Strike shocked the establishment by running past everyone and winning the first leg of this year's Triple Crown series.

Those who bet $2 to win on Rich Strike got $163.60 in return. Not bad for about two minutes of work. For jockey Sonny Leon, trainer Eric Reed and owner Rick Dawson, the result was life-changing. Leon was racing Friday at a little-known track in Cincinnati called Balterra Park. Reed's biggest win before Saturday was with a filly called Satans Quick Chick in a Grade 2 race nearly 12 years ago. Dawson, a half-hour or so after the Derby, rhetorically asked a question to anyone within earshot.

"What planet is this?" Dawson said.

Indeed, it's a whole new world that he's part of now.

And a 3-year-old colt that was much closer to last place than first for most of the race Saturday made it all happen.
